

5 BETTER WAYS TO STORE YOUR BEAUTY BITS

Your messy make-up drawer is a thing of the past, thanks to our team of super-organised pros!

1 "On shoots, I like to organise my eyeshadows in Pan Palettes [from £12.50 and eyeshadows £14.50 each Bobbibrwn.co.uk]. They hold enough shades to create an effortless day look in one, and then a smouldering array of richer tones for the evening in another."
Lee Pycroft, international make-up artist

2 "Muji's transparent boxes [from £1.95 Muji.eu] are great for storing make-up. You can see the products you're looking for, and any dirt you need to clean up. They have different boxes and dividers to organise every product you own."
Caroline Barnes, Max Factor make-up artist

3 "I keep items such as cotton wool, tissues and sponges in glass containers with lids until they are used so they are not exposed unnecessarily to airborne bacteria."
Vaishaly Patel, celebrity facialist

4 "I store my make-up brushes [from £17 Dolce & Gabbana Make Up] in a Brush Roll [£335 Smythson.com], but only when completely dry to prevent bacteria from multiplying."
Julie Jacobs, make-up artist to the stars

5 "Keep all the skin products you use regularly in one place – in the order you use them. In my bathroom cabinet I have all my morning products on one shelf – cleanser, toner, moisturiser, eye cream and lip treatment – and all my evening products on another."
Lisa Hoffman, founder of Lisa Hoffman Beauty
